Four Birdies On Last Nine Holes Give Taylor Lead

Victoria Golfer Leads Frank Dolp, Portland, 1 up at End of First Eighteen Holes in Second Round of Canadian Amateur Golf; Taylor Has Round of 70

CAMPBELL GAINS FOUR-HOLE LEAD

Kenny Black Has 3 Up Margin Over Dick Moore; Dave Don Gowan, Vancouver, Has 1 Up Margin on Gordon Taylor, Defending Champion

Canadian Press

Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, Vancouver, B.C., June 12.—Early brilliancy enabled Jack Cameron, Toronto, runner-up for the Canadian amateur golf title last year, to take a five-hole lead over Bobby Keith, Winnipeg, here to-day in the first eighteen holes of their second-round match in the current championship campaign. Cameron knocked two strokes from par with an outgoing thirty-five to lead by five holes at the turn, and he held this lead in the face of a determined rally by the eighteen-year-old Winnipeg youngster on the difficult home stretch. Keith was the medalist on Monday.

Two birdies and seven par holes in the first nine recorded by the veteran Toronto sharpshooter, playing in his ninth consecutive Canadian amateur, shook the nerves of the slim Manitoba open and amateur champion as Bobby lost his putting touch and threw away several holes. After the turn, Keith went down when he drove out of bounds on the eleventh and hooked into the trees on the twelfth. The Manitoba won the fourteenth with a par four and the fifteenth with a long putt for a par four. The younger took his third straight hole with a par four on the sixteenth, but Cameron drove the 252-yard seventeenth to 20-3 up again. They halved the last hole in five, one over par.

TAYLOR HAS FOUR BIRDIES
Alan Taylor, brilliant Victoria youth, and Frank Dolp, veteran campaigner from Portland, played a sub-par round over the intricate fairways of the second nine to reach the half-way mark with Taylor leading by one hole. The Victoria boy was one down at the turn, but he ran in a hole on the third and two consecutive, to come in with a 32, three under par, and an eighteen-hole aggregate of 70. Dolp also clipped par on the home nine with a 34.

Chicago Rye Price Sets Rumors Flying

Some Reports Say Corner Exists; Others Say Grain Is Scarce; Canada Shipping Rye to United States

Associated Press
Chicago, July 12.—A corner in rye was rumored in the lobbies of the Chicago Board of Trade today as the cereal mounted five more cents a bushel for a gain of some 25 cents in three days, and in some instances sold higher than certain wheat options. Reports indicated that rye, open to market purchases, had become so scarce that thousands of bushels had been imported from Canada.

Various reasons have been put forward for the meteoric rise in rye. At first it was said wheat had risen so high many would turn to rye bread. Then it was added the processing tax on wheat made this switch from white to black bread likely.

Later rumors were this was not so likely, but that the rise was due to scarcity of rye, which has not been cultivated as widely as formerly owing to the exceeding low price it brought during 1932. To-day, reports spread that demand for rye increased materially by the return of beer, was so great much of it was coming in from Canada.

TURTLES WAR ON KITCHENER SWANS

Kitchener, Ont., July 12.—Submarine warfare is being waged in Victoria Park Lake here, as large, heavily-armed, snapping turtles kill young swans as they glide gracefully over the surface of the lake. To-day, but two of the young swans were left alive and one turtle had been killed "on suspicion" for the murder.

TWO FORMER VICTORIA GIRLS HOME IN WOMEN'S LATEST

Victorians who were downtown yesterday afternoon stretched their necks when two good-looking girls strolled along Douglas Street wearing clothes of the latest Hollywood fashion, men's styles designed for women.

A reporter of The Times, given the assignment of interviewing the two girls, wandered the streets aimlessly wondering how to tackle such a delicate mission. Luckily a passer-by mentioned that he knew one of the two and matters were made easier.

"We don't mind people staring at us, it's only the remarks of the smaller children that sometimes prove annoying," explained pretty, dark-haired Miss Betty Heyland of Oakland, Cal., and her attractive blonde companion Miss Shirleigh Sharpe of San Francisco.

Miss Heyland, besides her dazzling smile, wore a pair of specially-cut grey flannel trousers with a full cape of the same material and a gray "come-along" hat with a gaily-colored feather peeking slyly out of the ribbon.

Miss Sharpe, who is as fair as her companion is dark, appeared very chic in a cream-colored outfit.

GREY POPULAR
The two girls, who came to Victoria a few days ago to spend July and part of August visiting with friends, said that the wearing of clothes specially cut in men's styles was the latest fashion in the south. Greys and whites were the most popular colors this summer, they said, although the

FIVE RUSSIAN COOKS TO DIE

Associated Press
Moscow, July 12.—Five cooks in three different workers' restaurants in Moscow were sentenced to death to-day as enemies of the Soviet state for throwing nails, glass and wire into food they prepared, serving spoiled food and arbitrarily reducing food portions.

Six other cooks were sentenced to prison terms of various lengths, and one was acquitted.

INVESTIGATION IN VANCOUVER

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 12.—Charges made by four former employees of the city sewer department that members of the I.O.O.F. are given preference when employment is available in that branch will be investigated at a special meeting of the civic board of works to be convened within a week after the men's allegations are submitted in writing.

This was decided by the board when the four men met aldermen to give personal evidence supporting their charges. On March 30 the four, with two others, signed a letter alleging that preference was given to members of a certain lodge, and last Monday they specified the lodge was the I.O.O.F. They will put their charges in writing and copies will be supplied to the officials declared to be responsible.

D. B. Emeno, Officer of Bank of Montreal, Shot; C. H. Whalley, Dismissed Employee, Held By Police, Says He Squared Accounts By Shooting

Canadian Press
Mexico City, July 12.—Preparations were made to-day to send the body of David B. Emeno, forty-five-year-old general manager of the Bank of Montreal in Mexico, to his native Lunenburg, N.S., for burial.

The Canadian banker was shot yesterday evening while in the midst of an executive conference in his office. C. H. Whalley, thirty-five-year-old native of Yorkshire, England, was in jail to-day after having confessed, police said, to slaying the banker for dismissing him from the bank's service.

Mr. Emeno, who is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Pennycuik of Regina, was surrounded by his staff when, eyewitnesses said, Whalley entered the room, walked out and then reappeared with a blazing revolver.

Five bullets found their mark in Emeno's body and he slumped to the floor dead before his associates could reach his side.

Whalley had been discharged from his position as one of the lesser officials of the bank while on a vacation in England, it was learned. He returned to-day.

Vancouver Sun Editorial Scores Tolmie and Bowser.

Candidates nominated to date:
Liberals 34, Tolmie 1, Unionist 2, Bowserites 8, C.F.R. 15, Independents 10, United Front 5, Total 74.

The executive of the Victoria Conservative Association will meet to-night to try and solve a riddle. When the B.C. Conservative Association decided to let the individual executive take whatever action they wished in the election all the Conservatives were left sitting on the fence. They do not know which side to jump to. They have a choice of either the Tolmie or Bowser ranks or they can sit on the fence and ride with the Independents.

F. A. Willis will preside at the meeting and the four Victoria members, Reginald Hayward, Despard Twiss, Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe and James Beatty, will attend. The Victoria quartette will not go into the election in contact. Mr. Beatty has definitely stated that he is through with politics for good. Mr. Hinchliffe will stick by Dr. Tolmie, even if it means he will be defeated at the polls. He says he would loathe himself for the rest of his life if he deserted Dr. Tolmie. Dr. Hinchliffe's trial, Mr. Hayward is reported to be inclined to stick as a straight Conservative, which may mean that he cannot side with either Dr. Tolmie or Mr. Bowser, neither of whom at present say they subscribe to the true Conservative platform. They say British Columbia needs something different,

BREAD MAKERS WATCH FLOUR

Local bakers are closely watching the rise in flour prices. With wheat showing continued strength, flour has risen 25 cents a barrel in the last few days and there is no indication of a halt in its ascent to-day. This is expected to have an effect on bread prices.

LIBERALS SURE OF BLOCK SEAT

T. D. Pattullo Addresses Greatest Gathering Ever Held in Peace River District

Dr. W. A. Watson Highly Regarded There and Only C.C.F. Candidate Opposing Him

Special to The Times

Dawson Creek, B.C., July 12.—Enthusiastically received by one of the largest political gatherings yet held in this area, T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader in British Columbia, and Dr. W. A. Watson, his standard bearer in the coming campaign for the Peace River block, were practically assured of victory in this seat on Tuesday.

In a characteristic straight from the shoulder talk in which Mr. Pattullo reviewed present conditions in British Columbia and outlined the progressive policies which have been built into the Liberal platform. He evoked enthusiastic applause from his hearers and effectively demonstrated the fallacies of the contentions of the C.C.F. candidate, so far the only one in the field in opposition to Dr. Watson.

Previous to the meeting Mr. Pattullo, Dr. Watson and Major S. F. M. Moody were guests at a dinner presided over by Irvine Groh, vice-president of the Board of Trade, and attended by leading men and women of the district. In welcoming the visitors Mr. Groh cited figures showing the growing importance of the district and spoke enthusiastically of the future. Mr. Groh also presided at the evening meeting. Mr. Pattullo and Dr. Watson are making a four-day tour of the district and are being assured of victory at all points. Dr. Watson is a well-known old time resident of the Peace River Block and is popular in all sections. He is an overseas man and has a splendid record of service in the Peace River Block.

STUDIES BREAD PRICE INCREASE

Associated Press
Washington, July 12.—Farm administrators say bread prices are being increased "unjustifiably" in many sections. It has been informed that the abhorred John J. O'Connell, twenty-four-year-old nephew of Ed and Dan O'Connell, upstate Democratic leaders, was kidnapped early last Friday morning.

The proclamation was the signal for a flood of beer trucks to rumble into action, transporting cases of 32 pints, from railroad cars to wholesale and retail dealers.

MINIMUM WAGE PLAN IN THE U.S.

President Roosevelt May Issue Blanket Order For Limited Work Hours

Associated Press
Washington, July 12.—President Roosevelt, while pleased with the progress toward establishing industrial codes throughout the United States, is considering a blanket order to provide minimum wages and limited hours until the recovery programme goes into effect.

That he is devoting a major part of his attention to work toward these codes, under which industries would voluntarily or be required to set up minimum wage and maximum work hours schedules, became more plain to-day, but it was emphasized in high quarters he would be guided in his course by the views of Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, now working on a plan possibly involving a blanket order.

MERCURY AT 115 IN TEXAS TOWN

Kansas City, July 12.—A gasping, sun-baked, southwestern United States to-day hoped for the clouds, forecast by weather observers, to alleviate somewhat the heat that caused four deaths yesterday.

Two died in Dallas, Tex., where the mercury reached 104, and two succumbed in Oklahoma. Oklahoma City's 100 equalled this record set there in July, 1914.

But Vernon, Tex., topped all high temperature readings with 115, the city's twenty-first consecutive day of 100-degree weather.

Recent rains in parts of Missouri and Kansas came in time to save crops but two federal crop statisticians in Oklahoma City predicted failure of the corn crop in the state unless rain falls quickly.

Following long investigation, Soviet Russia has announced Sembay will be admitted there in view of services in the cause of international labor.

Long after the closing of the institution for the day Whalley surprised his former fellow-employees by walking into the bank. Whalley was in a bitter mood when police questioned him. "Now we are square," he quoted him as saying. "I was left in the street without a job and without money. Everyone knows Emeno was sent to Mexico to close up the bank's business in Mexico. I am completely satisfied with what I have done."

The span is to be constructed as a relief project and at present is estimated to cost more than $5,000. When it is finally completed, it is expected it will have a life of about sixty years. The bridge should be ready for traffic a month after work is started.

Canadian Authors Addressed To-day By Kipling In London

Political Paragraphs

The nomination of Mr. Erick may mean that there will be a second Bowser candidate in this riding. Before the convention rural Equilmait became quite disturbed over the fact that Mr. Erick was being groomed for the fray. The rural folks want Fred C. Elliott, former president of the Victoria, Conservative Association, to carry the standard, and said if Mr. Elliott did not receive the nomination they would enter his name anyway.

If rural Equilmait goes ahead with its original plans, Mr. Elliott and Mr. Erick will both be in the race, and this will find three Conservatives seeking the spoils of victory. In addition to Mr. Elliott and Mr. Erick there will be Attorney-General Pooley, who has at Equilmait so long that he almost considers the constituency his private property. Charles E. Whitney-Griffiths will be the Liberal candidate.

Before the names were balloted last night at Colwood Mr. Elliott arose and after stating that he appreciated the qualifications of his opponents, said that if Mr. Erick defeated him he would be the first one to go out and help him win the seat. Mr. Elliott said he was anxious to do anything to bring Mr. Bowser back into power. The welfare of the country was bound up in the leadership of Mr. Bowser, he stated. Mr. Erick reciprocated by saying if he lost the nomination he would take off his coat and work for Mr. Elliott's election even if Premier Tolmie orders the Battle of Ballots in midwinter.

A woman's party was not organized at a meeting held yesterday evening in Saanich but it got started. Another meeting will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at Burnside Park to further consider the launching of a party. The three speakers last night were Mrs. Alice McGregor, who has been active in local civic elections in recent years; T. Guy Sheppard, C.C.F. candidate in Victoria, and Mrs. N. Lewis, who was very active in the idea to have a woman's party.

No one has yet announced what a women's party would attempt to do, whether it would name women to contest the election or whether it would advise all women to vote for certain candidates sponsored by other parties.

The Vancouver Sun in an editorial yesterday commented on the speech made by Premier Tolmie at the annual picnic of the Vancouver Conservative Association at Beaver Lake on Saturday.

"Dr. Simon Fraser Tolmie went to a picnic in Saanich, B.C., yesterday. It was an amazing bit of political wisdom," says The Sun editorial.

"There never was a time," cries the editor, "when we should carefully avoid anything which might look like an experiment."

"Much nonsense has been talked at picnics. Indeed, the very atmosphere of a picnic is such as to lead to a stimulation of foolishness."

"But never in all the history of picnics," says the editor, "has such a self-revealing place of folly been uttered by any politician."

"In that speech Dr. Tolmie analyzed the cause of our present failure. He stamped himself as holding to a reactionism that has been dropped long since by even the most reactionary Tories."

"No experiments, indeed! Without experiment the world might just as well lie down in its own stinking stagnation and die."

"That, of course, is what Dr. Tolmie and his shadow government have done."

"And what does W. J. Bowser offer them? He offers them a reactionism that has been dropped long since by even the most reactionary Tories."

"This discredited politician, with a record of failure in public life, is now being held up as a model of wisdom. He would lead us to a series of promises so nebulous as to be un-understandable."

"Contrast the promises of Bowser and the stagnant reactionism of Tolmie with the vigorous programme of T. D. Pattullo and his Liberal-minded followers."

"Mr. Pattullo stands for a revision of taxation, for a curtailment of expenditure, for a national banking system, for a sound and broad policy for the extension of British Columbia markets, for a more liberal old-age pension policy, for a survey of highway and road requirements and for the appointment of a public utilities commission."

"There is no dangerous experimentation here. But there is initiative, action and vigor—things of which Dr. Tolmie is completely devoid. He is certainly a never-practiced during his lamentable term of office in this province."

"Dr. Tolmie may go to picnic until he is blue in the face. But all his picnic talk will never justify his shameful attempts to hang onto office and so keep out of office a group that can do something for British Columbia."

"Just like Mr. Bowser, Dr. Tolmie is politically dead in this province. If he does not call an immediate election and submit to the will of an outraged people, the Lieutenant-Governor should do it for him."

Canada's History and Future Are Subject of Welcoming Speech Heard By Tourists

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 12.—Canada, her glorious past and her wonderful future and the great inheritance she has from the mother country, formed the theme of a vividly phrased address by Rudyard Kipling to-day when he made one of his few public speeches to welcome the touring party of the Canadian Authors' Association.

G. K. Chesterton was another celebrated speaker at the luncheon tendered the visiting Canadian writers by the Royal Society of Literature. The Marquess of Creve presided and many notable Britishers were present.

The poet addressed the visitors as "fellows-craftsmen or crafts-women from Canada."

"Canadian writers and poets," said Mr. Kipling, "have dealt directly or by implication with every detail of their country's life and background."

"Now your men and women are dealing with those marvelous later years when Canada, first of the new powers, came to her own as a free nation, and incidentally sent 400,000 free men to war."

"Directly or unconsciously then the splendor, the toil, the variety of your national history will have inspired or colored all your work."

"But who the people are that have already written these words, and for what reason of heart or emotion their words will be accepted before all other words, cannot tell."

TITLE DEEDS

"You have spent fairly crowded days with us. You have before your eyes in which to look over some of the possessions and verify the title deeds of your imperishable inheritance here."

"Whether they be the work of men's hands or men's souls, they bear witness to the instincts—more than the intellect—of the immortal, racial instinct toward unbridled expenditures on matters spiritual and material for the sheer joy of the exercise."

"They are doubly yours since the dominant strains of our blood draw from those twin races, French and English, which throughout their histories have been most resolute not to be deceived on any pretext for any gain."

RECALLS VICTORIA VISIT

"It was once given to me to see Canada on a block in a prodigious sweep from Quebec to Victoria and back. Through three amazing weeks it was given me to be shown things within the next ten years tell story of the facts."

"I tried to grasp all these things because they were just as much mine as yours. I was not a tourist, but a citizen long after my return did the significance of them begin to break on me. Then my impressions clarified and arranged themselves and I told them out in my head. I found I had the key to them all the time in my heart."

CLERGYMAN IS ACQUITTED

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 12.—Rev. Cyril Owen Darby, thirty-one, clergyman of the Anglican Church in Victoria, was acquitted by the County Court here by Judge J. C. McIntosh of a charge concerning a seventeen-year-old girl.

J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., and T. F. McIntosh, and A. C. Desbriars prosecuted.

Testifying for the accused, Archbishop A. U. de Pencier related a conversation with the girl in Vancouver on March 2, when she told him Mr. Darby was not to blame for the trouble she was in. His lordship added that Mr. Darby had been curate at Christ Church, and was very successful with young people.

The charge was seduction, which was alleged to have occurred at Gibson's Landing between April 5, 1932 and December 31.

The trial attracted a fair crowd, including a number of women. The accused has been rector of the Anglican Church at Gibson's Landing for the last three or four years. The girl had been a teacher in his Sunday school and was also a member of the Girl Guides.

When she was arrested in 1932, she had given him a ring on April 6, 1932, and told her they could not get married for two or three years because she was too young.

WORE THE RING

Mrs. Mabel Smith, a defence witness, stated Mr. Darby used to let her daughter wear the ring at times.

The mother of the girl testified the accused had told her he was secretly engaged to her daughter for a year and was responsible for her condition.

Dr. W. B. Burnett testified he had been consulted by the girl's parents and advised Darby to marry her. The accused, according to cross-examination, first agreed to marry the girl, but later refused to go through with it.

The accused did not take the witness stand.

Judge McIntosh acquitted the accused on the ground the crown had not submitted evidence sufficient to justify a conviction. The evidence, in his opinion, was not being the crown within the section of the code under which it was laid.

DIVORCE FRAUD IS NOT PROVED

Alberta Judge Upholds Decree of Hon. O. L. McPherson, Public Works Minister

Canadian Press
Edmonton, July 12.—The absolute divorce decree granted Hon. O. L. McPherson, Alberta Public Works Minister, was upheld to-day in a decision given by Mr. Justice Frank Ford. The decision dismissed action of Cora Lillian McPherson to upset the divorce decree.

The question of costs was reserved until the judge is informed whether or not an application is to be made for an allowance for the plaintiff.

In a lengthy judgment Mr. Justice Ford pointed to the "room for doubt as to where the real truth of the whole matter lies" and said he thought the interests of justice would be better served by some proper provision for the plaintiff's support and right of access to her children.

If the judge said it was intended to apply to him under the Domestic Relations Act, he was prepared to give an early appointment as possible for the hearing.

RARE CASE

The judgment, in part, reads as follows: "This action is of a kind which in the legal history of England and Canada is rare. In some respects it is unique and without exact precedent. It is remarkable that in seventy-six years during which the English courts have had jurisdiction absolutely to dissolve marriage there is, as far as I have been able to find, only one reported case in England where, after a decree absolute for divorce granted by an English court, an attempt has been made to have it set aside on the ground of fraud."

EXECUTION IN MANITOBA TO-DAY

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, July 12.—With a declaration of innocence on his lips, Fred Stawynsky died on a scaffold here early to-day for the murder of an unnamed infant. Convicted of strangling to death September 1, 1929, a child born to Pauline Yasuk, Stawynsky was executed at the Headingley jail at 7.38 a.m.

Facing death calmly, Stawynsky said: "I am innocent and prepared to meet my Maker." Jake Handel, prison turnkey, interpreted his final words.

Rev. Father John Holko, Greek Catholic priest, had spent the night with the doomed man in the death cell.

After Dr. J. A. MacArthur had refused to perform the last rites, Stawynsky had been held by Dr. H. M. Speechly, Manitoba provincial coroner, the body was claimed by two sons, Mike and Nick Stawynsky, who planned to take it to Anguville, Man., for burial.

APPEAL FAILED

The death sentence was passed by Mr. Justice J. E. Adamson at the Manitoba assizes. The jury's verdict was appealed, but on June 30 the Manitoba Court of Appeal upheld the conviction, only Mr. Justice Robson dissenting.

The prosecution alleged Stawynsky was intimate with married woman and had five children by her. It further alleged he had choked to death four of the children at birth. The fifth was born dead.

BRIDGE WORK TO GIVE JOBS TO 250

Operations at Second Narrows, Vancouver, Expected to Be Started in Few Days

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 12.—Reconstruction of the Second Narrows Bridge probably will commence within a few days, it is announced by A. E. McKay of the Foundation Co., Montreal, contractors on the $800,000 project.

Mr. McKay is only waiting official orders from the government at Ottawa and these are expected any moment now that the courts have approved transfer of the bridge to the Vancouver Harbor Board and settled the matter of Receiver H. H. Bridges' costs.

Supplies of steel, lumber, cement and gravel will be ordered the moment work comes from Ottawa and it is expected the first work gangs will be on the job within two weeks and ready to begin.

Work on the foundations will be completed in six months, according to Mr. McKay.

Nearly 350 men will be employed when the work is at its peak.

STEEL WORK

In the meantime the Dominion Bridge Co., successful tenderers for the superstructure, will commence fabrication of the steel. This will probably be completed and on the ground by the time the foundations are ready, it is said.

Construction of the superstructure will occupy another three months, so the bridge will be completed and ready for operation early in the spring, probably in April.

Associated with the Foundation Company in the contract are A. C. Burdick of Vancouver and C. R. Bruley of Montreal and of Montreal and Bruley are supervising engineers for the whole work.

Two Former Victoria Girls Home In Women's Latest

color of the suit varied to suit the wear and all the colors that are found in men's clothes and many that are not, are being worn by the damsels of California and other parts of the United States.

The start of the fad of wearing men's clothes, specially designed for women, is generally credited to Marlene Dietrich, German screen actress, who first appeared in a tuxedo and the next day appeared in a pair of flannel "slacks" and a coat and vest.

Since then the fad has swept the countryside and has assumed large proportions.

VERY COMFORTABLE

"They are very comfortable to wear," answered Miss Heyland, in a response to a query. "At first they seemed rather strange, but after wearing them for a while one gets used to them."

Neither of the girls appeared self-conscious as the people who crowded the streets turned to stare at them. They were told what to expect in Victoria, but they became used to the inquisitive stares of people when the fashion first became popular in the south.

Many girls have appeared on Victoria's highways and by-ways clad in pairs of their brother's long pants or women's slacks, on hikes or other outings, but Miss Heyland and Miss Sharpe are the first to appear in trousers and all the trimmings.

Whether the fashion will swing the maidens of Victoria is a question. It is known some hardy souls have been waiting for someone to break the ice and undoubtedly many some one is not unduly anxious they may come out in similar outfits

MAY MR BENNETT WIN HIS CASE

The London Morning Post announces that Premier Bennett will immediately make strong representations to the British government urging it to stop the importation by the United Kingdom of lumber from Soviet Russia. It is suggested that he will emphasize the significance of Article 21 of the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement signed at Ottawa last year. This provides that if the imperial preferences are endangered by the competition of goods subsidized or produced by state control, then the import of such goods should be prohibited. In other words, the British government will be urged to stop the importation of Russian timber at prices prohibiting, for instance, fair competition with the forest products of British Columbia. It will be recalled that Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Canada's Minister of Finance, told the World Economic Conference the other day that if Britain failed to prevent this unfair competition, she would be asked to implement the pledge contained in the trade pact referred to above.

This lumber question, of course, has been a bone of contention between Canada and Great Britain for some time. The timber importers of the United Kingdom say that this country can not compete with Soviet Russia and the northern European countries either in the matter of price or certain specifications. The price is naturally higher because of the great distance between the point of production and the market, with the inevitable high cost of transportation. The price is likewise higher because the cost of production in this province is greater than it is in Russia and the other northern European supplying countries. There are other factors with which the timbermen of British Columbia are thoroughly familiar which add to the difficulties of widening the United Kingdom market for our forest products.

It is to be hoped, however, that Mr. Bennett will be able to impress upon the British government the fact that at no time in the recent history of the lumber industry of British Columbia has the cost of production been so low as it is at present, and there is every likelihood that were the industry given a greater opportunity to cater to the needs of the United Kingdom, most, or all of the other adverse factors would become insignificant or disappear altogether. Even the problem of transportation should not be wholly un-surmountable. There are more than 3,000,000 tons of British shipping tied up. We are not competent to offer an opinion as to whether it would not be more desirable to permit some of these idle ships to earn something than to let them depreciate in idleness. There no doubt would have to be all-round co-operation. But the British statesmen who attended the Ottawa conference were enthusiastic about the outcome of that gathering. The treaties were to be the beginning of a new era of inter-empire trade. If they did not speak with their tongues in their cheeks, they should not hesitate to give Mr. Bennett a patient hearing and see what can be done to put more teeth in the Canada-United Kingdom pact in this regard.

The chief adverse feature of our Prime Minister's position at this juncture is that it is only twelve days since Russia released the two British engineers who were in prison in Moscow in return for Great Britain's agreement to lift the embargo on Russian imports, imposed on April 19, and applicable to about eighty per cent of Britain's purchases from the Soviet, including, of course, lumber. Much as Canada will hope for the success of Mr. Bennett's appeal, it will be surprising if the British government, obviously hard pressed by an influential section of British industry to restore trading relations with the Soviet, will feel like reversing itself in respect of a commodity which Russia has been selling to Britain at the average annual rate for the last year or so of between 900,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 feet board measurement. Indeed, Canada's average annual share of the British lumber business has been between 175,000,000 and 200,000,000 feet board measurement, while Britain's annual consumption is about 4,000,000,000 feet. Even the United States supplies between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 feet more to Great Britain than Canada does. The rest, however, is obtained in continental Europe, with Russia heading all exporting nations.

Mr. Bennett will be able to draw attention to this extremely top-heavy timber trade of Britain with non-empire countries. We know, of course, that British importers have been accustomed for years to getting their supplies from the European countries; therefore, it will be no easy task to break down that policy. But even if Mr. Bennett should succeed in getting Canada's share only doubled, British Columbia will benefit considerably.

A BLOT UPON THE CITY'S LANDSCAPE

Mrs. Nell Glover's article on Victoria in The Yorkshire Post, which aroused considerable local comment several months ago, might have contained one stricture which would have been entirely justified. It might have referred to the hideous appearance of our waterfront between Johnson Street bridge and the post office, the tumble-down wharves, with their dilapidated buildings and junk heaps, and the need of fresh paint on many structures contiguous to the harbor. That section of the city generally is an affront to the eye which would not be permitted in any other progressive community of the size of Victoria on the continent. It completely spoils the otherwise fine approach from the sea presented by the government buildings, the Empress Hotel, the Belmont and Union Club buildings, the post office, and the causeway.

Between the two landscapes we have a study in contrasts which must make the first-time visitor wonder which picture reflects the real spirit of Victoria. Judged by one we are wholesome and refined. Judged by the other we are unimagingly sloppy, if not disreputable, and need a bath in a strong disinfectant. In one case, the principal contributors to which were the provincial government, the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Dominion government, Victoria suggests that it is the capital of the province. In the other it conveys the impression that Victoria takes pleasure out of ugly dilapidation and wants strangers to feel that everybody who enters here should abandon hope.

Some of the money which is being expended on relief should be used in remedying this glaring deficiency. We feel certain that the owners of the waterfront wharves and buildings, and structures in the immediate neighborhood would not object to the improvement of their property, and some of them, no doubt, would do the work themselves if their attention were called to the need of it. But if they are unable to stand the expense, which must be the case in most instances since the premises are not revenue producing, the city might undertake the job as part of an unemployment relief programme and as a work necessary to its own self-respect. At least the city could cover the various defects which now offend the eye with some clean paint, transforming the time-worn red-brick landscape which suggests that Victoria was founded in the time of Nebuchadnezzar, into something brighter and more in harmony with the spirit of the twentieth century.

It is difficult to conceive of any external element more suggestive of utter hopelessness, of the despairing end of all things, of dark, dismal pessimism, than the appearance of our waterfront between Johnson Street bridge and the post office on a dull day. After all, Victoria is not fifteen centuries old. It was founded only ninety years ago. We are still in the beach pyjama stage. Why wear the garb of senility? There are communities in old Quebec which are more than three centuries old but which appear much younger than the section of Victoria to which we allude. We strongly urge the city authorities to take such steps as may be necessary to modify if not remove the eyesore presented by a large part of our waterfront and the section contiguous to it. It is a disgrace to the capital city of the province. Mrs. Glover must have arrived here in the early morning or she would have commented unsparringly upon this blot upon the city's landscape.

INTERNATIONAL PAYMENTS SHOWED CREDIT BALANCE

Canada's international payments last year showed a credit balance of $72,138,000, irrespective of capital movements. The estimated net outflow of capital was $23,000,000, leaving an undetermined balance of credits on the export side of $49,138,000. These estimates are arrived at after an analysis of international payments made and received by Canada during 1932, including not only trade in commodities and gold usually embraced in the "balance of trade," but also "invisible entries" on both the export and import side of the account. These invisible entries included such items as interest, tourist expenditures, insurance, immigrant remittances and government expenditures and receipts. Some of the invisible entries appear among both exports and imports; some only on one side of the account.

It is an essential principle of the balance sheet of international payments of a country that imports and exports should balance. If they do not, the fault lies with the inadequacy of the estimates for individual items. The balance sheet for Canada last year, prepared by the Dominion statistician, shows total imports of $1,031,789,000 and total exports of $1,080,927,000. The difference, $49,138,000, is set down to "net errors and omissions," and is described above as an undetermined balance. These total figures include capital movements, the balance of non-capital entries being $72,138,000. The difference between these last two figures, $23,000,000, is accounted for in the entries as net outflow of capital.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

INDUSTRY'S NEW ERA

The Detroit News

Under the National Recovery Act industry is to be permitted to consult and come to agreements, which are subject to the approval of the President. For two years the anti-trust acts are to be regarded null. We are going to gauge production to consumption, or try to. Perhaps the scheme will not work; certainly no one expects it to achieve perfection. But free enterprise, with free movement of capital and labor, has not worked either, regulated or unregulated. Industry seems willing, and in some cases enthusiastic, to try the new experiment. To pass judgment in advance is foolish. The wisest course is to wait with an open mind, see what happens, and judge by the results.

THE CANNIBAL ISLANDS

The Moncton Transcript

Carib means cannibal, but The Gleaner of Kingston, Jamaica, does not object to the term "the British Caribbean Colonies" when applied to the British islands and British Guiana, provided that it is fully understood that Jamaica never was a cannibal island. The Arawaks, the original people of Jamaica, were not cannibals but the Caribs, the inhabitants of Trinidad, Antigua and other islands were undoubtedly consumers of human flesh. In fact the Spaniards who visited the islands in the early days declared they found huts serving as shops in which human arms and legs were displayed for sale which seems, in addition, to indicate that the Caribs had developed a considerable commercial instinct.

GAME PROTECTION

To the Editor:—In a recent issue, you mention the fact that cougars have been destroying sheep at Sooke, also that a professional cougar hunter has been on the scene.

It may be of interest to the public to know that, under our present brilliant administration, a farmer not only cannot live and keep sheep, but also that a professional cougar hunter has been on the scene.

As the hunter-remarked when I went for him, "If the government had left the bounty on, would he be glad to take my chance, but as it is I cannot go unless paid a reasonable fee."

The government pleads lack of funds for removal of what has been a boon and aid to sheepmen for a great number of years past. Yet there is no lack of funds to pay an ever-increasing staff of game wardens, who are paid to go to the mountains to harass and oppress farmers who try to protect their growing crops from night marauding vermin.

Possibly in our Attorney-General's massive mind, lurks the, to him, pleasant vision of a British Columbia, 100 per cent game preserve. Instead of the happy life of the sheepman, the handmaid of God, has designed it. Then there shall be no farmers left to obstruct and annoy city sports from free and uninterfered hunting over anything and everything.

Possibly in the farmer's mind dwells the pleasant vision of the day when the present government, instead of the handmaid of God, has designed it. Then there shall be no farmers left to obstruct and annoy city sports from free and uninterfered hunting over anything and everything.

Visions both—time will tell.

 Such idle anticipations
 But, older grown I now discern

 And so to-day, all joys for me
 Point to the plain and hard;
 I prize their joyous quality,

SWANSON WILL GREET ARMADA

NBC to Broadcast Greetings of U.S. Secretary to Italian Fliers

The Italian air armada of twenty-four seaplanes, now en route from Rome to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, will be welcomed on its arrival by U.S. Secretary of the Navy, Claude A. Swanson. His greetings to Air Minister Balbo, and his companions will be broadcast over facilities of the National Broadcasting Company.
 Secretary Swanson will speak by radio from his desk in Washington and the fliers and a large audience at the World's Fair will hear his welcome over the public address system on the Exposition grounds. Other ceremonies in observance of the arrival of the transatlantic air squadron also will be heard over a NBC network.

The time of the broadcast will be announced as soon as it is definitely known at what hour the landing in Chicago will be made. The fliers are making a leisurely way across the ocean, having been further delayed by unsettled weather conditions in Iceland. Commander Balbo received instructions from Premier Mussolini to take no unnecessary chances, and is expected to wait for perfect flying weather before making the successive hops that will take him to the Exposition.

Whether western NBC networks will release the broadcast depends upon the time of the armada's arrival in the United States.

STAMP BACKS MOVES IN U.S.

Roosevelt's Recovery Programme "to a Large Extent Right" Says Economist

Associated Press
 New York, July 12.—Sir Josiah Stamp, British financier and economist, approved President Roosevelt's recovery programme yesterday evening in a radio address from London.
 "I am one of those who think the President's policy is to a large extent right, because all regular expedients have failed," said the text of his speech as made available here.
 Stamp said that the control of industry can ever have more than a limited success at best and may create great insecurity at its worst, people on this side of the water realize the depths of the difficulties into which the United States price-level collapse and banking collapse have brought her industrial activities and how necessary it was for such striking measures to be put forward.
 "I would also say that so far the public use made of the stimulus of the powers, as distinct from the actual use of the powers themselves, has also been skillful."
 "The great thing I have to fear is too high a degree of speculative activity with its inevitable reaction."

BLAND CHILD IS ADOPTED

One of Five Held in Children's Aid Home Taken By Catholic Family

Appeal Hearing Concludes With Justices Reserving Decision Over Commital

The legal battle over whether the five children of Jean and Charles Bland are to be brought up in the Children's Aid Society of Victoria or in the Roman Catholic Children's Home in Vancouver, concluded before the Court of Appeal here late yesterday with the court reserving its judgment.
 The hearing is an appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Pielke in the Supreme Court, who over-ruled the decision of Magistrate Jay, committing the children to the Victoria Children's Aid Society home because of the moral delinquency of their parents. The reversal was on the grounds that the magistrate should have ascertained the religious persuasion of the children before deciding on which place they should be committed to.
 H. A. Beckwith, conducting the appeal for the Children's Aid, referred to the action of the parents in 1928, when they voluntarily committed the children to the Children's Aid Society, as evidence of their religious persuasion. He argued that by adopting the order of the magistrate committing them recently to the home, those who are carrying on the case in the name of the parent Blands are precluded from attacking the order now.
 "They adopted the order and therefore they cannot now attack it," said Mr. Beckwith. He explained that four months after the committing of the children to the home, the children were transferred elsewhere, to the Catholic home.
 Mr. Beckwith informed the court that the Bland children are being held in the Children's Aid Home without restriction as to their religion. One child, already been placed in a Roman Catholic home, while others may be similarly adopted at any time.

"This is a flagrant piece of something not being inquired into when it is compulsory to inquire into it by statute," said Mr. Justice McPhillips.
 "Here is a complete failure to do an essential act," said Mr. Justice McPhillips, acting in the name of the Blands. "If it is decided the effort to ascertain the religious persuasion is not mandatory upon the magistrate, then I have no answer."
 Mr. O'Halloran explained that a year or so after the children were placed in the home by the parents, the children applied to have the children returned to them and this was done.
 Mr. Beckwith took the stand that the trial judge, sitting on a habeas corpus application, such as Mr. Justice Fisher was, had no right to review the proceedings as a court of appeal from the order of the magistrate.

Governor-General Speaks At Boys' School Closing

His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada is shown leaving the E. W. Beatty gymnasium at the Boys' Farm and Training School, Shawbridge, Que., after addressing the boys and awarding the prizes at the annual closing exercises held recently. Walking with His Excellency is E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is also president of the boys' school.

Shawbridge, Que., July 12.—Character, rather than outstanding ability or cleverness, is the keynote of success in life, the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, told the graduates and boys of the Boys' Farm and Training School whom His Excellency addressed on the occasion of the annual closing exercises of the Shawbridge School here recently. He cited as proofs of the dictum that lives and achievements of Queen Victoria, Lord Salisbury, Sir Douglas Haig and Marshal Foch, personalities he had met and known.

The graduation and closing exercises were held in the E. W. Beatty gymnasium, the seating capacity of 500 being taxed to the full. Of the audience about 150 boys were a part and the vice-regal party which included E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and also president of the Boys' Farm and Training School, the governor-general's suite and a number of directors and well-wishers of the institution were met when the special train arrived at the farm by the boys' hand and a large contingent of the students. His Excellency greeted individually a number of ladies and gentlemen attached to the school or resident in the village and, attended by Mr. Beatty and Major Ralph Willock, D.S.O., superintendent of the school, walked to the gymnasium, where the graduation exercises were at once commenced.

A number of choruses were sung and an address of welcome read by graduate Walter May. Jack McMenemy delivered the class prophecy, Leslie Stapleton gave a recitation and the value-dictory was pronounced by Donald Nicoll.

THANKS TO HIS HONOR

Mr. Beatty, who acted as chairman, expressed the deep appreciation of all concerned to His Excellency for giving his time to attend the exercises. It was pointed out, the first time in the history of the school that the Governor-General had been present at this function. He asked the boys to recognize it as a signal honor in their lives.

Congratulating the graduates on their success, he called upon Lord Bessborough to address the school.

His Excellency said that in the past two years he had spoken to more than 100,000 boys and girls in the Dominion and thought it was high time he should also speak to the boys of the school. He had lately been through the mining districts of Ontario, and while he was profoundly impressed with the great wealth in minerals that was underfoot in Canada, he thought a far greater asset to the country was the character of the people. His term as Governor-General, he said, had coincided with a period of depression and unemployment, and he had ample occasion to admire the steady and calm way in which Canada had faced their troubles during which they had remained sure of the future of the Dominion. His Excellency then cited the cases of Queen Victoria, Lord Salisbury, Sir Douglas Haig and Marshal Foch as instances of fine character. It was not cleverness so much as character that made for success.

As a further example for the boys of the school, the Governor-General took the case of the original Canadian Pacific directorate, men of humble origin, who rose by sheer force of character. Study was, however, a necessary aid to character, and it was the combination of the two which constituted arms and the man. He asked the boys to remember that in after life, what they did made for the repute or disrepute of the school and closed on an opposite quotation from Kipling's "If."

Distribution of prizes was then made, during which C. W. Lindsay was thanked by name for his long and unsparring service to the school.

THE VISITORS

In addition to His Excellency and Mr. Beatty there were on the platform Col. A. A. Magee, K.C., John McMillan, A. F. Lacombe, M.V.O., M.C., Owen Dawson and Major Willock. Directors of the school present were Robert Adair, Ernest Cousins, Hon. W. G. Mitchell and F. B. Whitte. Others at the closing exercises included W. F. Angus, John Bassett, W. R. Chenoweth, Norman J. Davies, Fernand Dufresne, director of police; Daniel Fitzgibbon, president, Kiwanis Club; Arthur McManis, president Rotary Club; George Finlayson, president Westmount Rotary Club; St. Clair Holland, W. WILL ENLARGE SCHOOL GROUND

Shirley, July 12.—The annual meeting of Shirley School district was held at the schoolhouse Saturday evening with H. J. Kirby as chairman.

The financial statement for the year was considered satisfactory and estimated set at $300 for the ensuing year were passed.

E. T. Ardin, whose term as trustee had expired was re-elected for a term of three years. Mrs. M. A. Clark was elected as auditor for the ensuing year.

It was decided to continue the arrangement with the Esquimalt District Rural Nursing Association for the visit of a nurse to the school infirmary.

A motion to collect school taxes from non-taxpayers over twenty-one years of age, resident in the district, was defeated.

To save expense, a "working bee" was decided on to enlarge the clearing in the school ground for the children's ball games, the ladies agreeing to provide refreshments for the workers. The date of the "bee" will be decided later.

SIDNEY SCHOOL RATE LOWERED

There was a large attendance of ratepayers at the annual meeting of Sidney school district on Saturday evening. J. J. White was in the chair. The usual reports were read and more gold was dug from the ground in 1932 than in any other year.

Safe at Home!

—He Has a Telephone

In everyday life, as in baseball, it's important to be "safe at home."

There are lots of people whose homes have never been entered by burglars, or threatened by fire, or who have never had an accident or illness that required a hurry-up call for the doctor. But they never know when any of these things might happen.

A telephone in the house gives a sense of security, because, when danger threatens, a telephone call is the quickest way to bring help.

"But you're made. Don't you realize that? Your story went all over the country. It will be a newspaper classic!"

"You're never made by one thing," Jocko said soberly. "You have to keep on hitting the ball again and again. And I haven't the stuff to do that, not the way Harry Gordon does it. You watch. Something may come up tomorrow that I'll fall down on. Then it will be just too bad."

"I didn't know you were so wise," Nan said.

"A fellow learns a little bit about the world knocking around the way I have. I know I'll never set the world on fire as a reporter. But maybe I'll hit my stride in something else."

"Of course you will," Nan seconded him warmly.

She prolonged the luncheon unduly. Harry might be coming in any time now, and she dreaded meeting him. But at last it was necessary that they go back to the office.

He was there, and his face lit up when he saw her, only to break into a scowl when he saw that Jocko was with her. Nan went over to him and gave him her hand.

"You're stories were great," she said. Jocko, unfortunately, had followed her, and he, too, extended congratulations. "They were great, stuff, Gordon."

Harry bowed ironically. "You're awfully kind. And I appreciate it more coming from someone who really knows a good story." He was being obviously insulting. Jocko flushed and left them.

"I understand the cub got a big hand on his return," Harry said angrily to Nan. "Conquering hero and everything. Even a bonus. I suppose you were helping him spend it."

"You're not being very nice, Harry," Nan returned. "Of course Jocko got a big hand. He deserved it."

"Just luck, blind luck, fool's luck. A fool proof story, and he happened to be there."

Harry was in the mood that Nan liked least. Charming and magnetic when he was the centre of the stage, he became moody and resentful if he must share it with someone else.

"You're acting like a jealous little boy," Nan reproached him. "Jocko risked his life, and no one could have handled the story better than he did. Her efforts in Jocko's behalf increased his ill humor. 'You might be prejudiced,' he said, with an expression that Nan recognized as a sneer. 'A girl overlooks an awful lot for a proposal of marriage, I understand.' Nan grew angry now. But before she could reply, Jocko came in from lunch and saw Harry.

"Hello Gordon, what took you so long? Wellman got back this morning."

"Why? I thought you wanted me to stay," Harry was astonished.

"Oh, it was all right. Only kind of unnecessary. But it's all right if you wanted to."

Harry got a quick, understanding, angry glance at Nan. He knew, and he was furious.

CHAPTER VIII

Young Wellman sent in a good story. Jocko went on, all unconscious of Harry's angry confusion. "I didn't know the boy had it in him."

"He got a good break," Harry retorted. "His voice was a little ragged, but he seemed genuine. In a good story like that don't break every day, and the guy's lucky that gets in on the ground floor."

He would never admit that Jocko deserved credit for courage and quick thinking. Nan saw that he was suffering, and felt sorry for him. Harry's vulnerable spot was his pride, and Jocko's unknown was turning the knife in the wound.

She wondered how he would punish her for what he must consider an inexcusable betrayal. By neglecting her, was her first guess. And she was right. He went to the city desk with Jocko to talk over the next lead on the firm story, and after that he gave no sign that he was aware of her existence. She longed to speak to him, to say she was sorry. If she hadn't interfered, Harry would have appropriated Jocko's need of praise, and Harry had as much as was good for him.

Nevertheless, Nan made excuses to linger in the city room as long as Harry did. But when he left for the day without so much as glancing at her, she put on her wraps and went window shopping. For Nan was at an age when nothing restores drooping spirits so quickly as the sight of pretty clothes.

By the time her tour had extended into two of the stores and her wardrobe was enriched by the addition of a clever hat, scarf, gloves and handkerchief, she felt better.

Harry would have to get over his pique. She had done nothing wrong and she could not recede from her position. But she found herself wishing she had not brought Jocko in to complicate the situation between them.

For several days, Harry left Nan severely alone. She might have occupied this time by cultivating Jocko, but she refrained for two reasons. She had a drastic lesson in playing with a man's affections in order to make another man jealous, and then she new that Harry would only be angered further. This she did not want to happen.

On the second day of her punishment she beckoned Jack Barnes over to her.

"Can't you see I'm dying of loneliness?" she asked pitifully. "Don't you intend to do something about it?"

"Aw go on, leave me alone," Barnes kidded her. "There are about twenty men on this paper, and you have to pick me out to break my heart?"

"I don't want your heart. I just want your company."

"Well in that case—but none of your tricks, now, young lady. And how long do I put myself in bondage?"

"Until Harry gets over being mad at me," Nan replied candidly.

"You're the girl that called Wellman back first, are you? Well, it'll be a long time before Harry will forgive you for that. But what's the matter with giving the kid a buzz while Harry sulks? It isn't like you to sit around in a corner."

"We'll, I tried that just once too often, Jack. I'm through toying with tender young hearts; that's why I picked out a cast iron one like you. And I pay my own way, too."

"Not with me, beautiful. If I have to do this thing, I'll do it right. I'll show that lousy bum of a Harry Gordon."

And so Nan was not lonely. And in a few days Harry stroled to her desk quite as if nothing had happened.

Nan was suddenly very happy. She realized now that the days of her punishment had been a strain, that she had been jumpy and irritable. But now Harry was all right, and everything was as it should be. The dam was never mentioned between them.

Nevertheless, Nan learned quickly that Harry had by no means forgiven Jocko. She saw after a time that he was working subtly against him in the office, dropping skillfully disparaging remarks, contriving to put Jocko in the wrong.

Nan was sorry, but felt helpless. Anything she might do to aid Jocko would only make it worse, and it was so nice to have Harry's affection again. She did it horribly, when he had withdrawn it.

Better to let the situation ride along. Harry would relent with Jocko presently as he had relented with her. And besides, Jocko seemed utterly unconscious of the persecution.

"Things have been dead lately," Harry remarked one day. "Think I'll throw a party."

And when Nan learned that Jocko was to be invited, she was indignantly pleased. This meant that the wound was all healed, that they could be friends again.

Harry's parties were notable in their small circle. He shared a charming apartment with another man, who always cleared out when Harry wished to entertain. To receive an invitation marked one an interesting person, for Harry had small patience with bores.

It seemed somehow an especially gala occasion. Nan got an extravagant new dress and gave her favorite beauty operator carte blanche. She came early in a taxi. Harry opened the door for her and, glancing about quickly to see that the aid was not in the room, gave her a long kiss.

When she had taken off her cloak in his room and put on the indispensable dash of powder, he kissed her again.

"It's great to have you here, Nan," he said, surveying her. "Only you make this place seem awfully cheap. When I get rich I'm going to spend my income fixing a place that will be appropriate for you."

Nan looked at him with demure surprise. "That sounds almost like a proposal."

Harry kissed her once more. "We must spoil this friendship, darling."

It was the old, old problem again. Obviously Harry would never change. The guests began to arrive. Before long it became clear that Harry had planned this party to put Jocko in his place. He baited him adroitly. He made him the butt of jokes. He contrived situations that made Jocko appear awkward, even boorish. And he did it so cleverly that no one but Nan realized what was going on. The others laughed when Harry intended them to laugh. The fact that Jocko was unmoved only made him seem more stupid.

Nan's cheeks began to burn. At last she could stand it no longer and slipped to Jocko's side during the lull in the bawling, caused by the fact that June Rathbone was doing a Spanish dance.

"Don't let him do that," she urged. "He's being purposely horrid. You don't have to take it."

"Why, I don't care," Jocko returned. "I'm out of my element in this crowd. But it doesn't hurt me any."

"Well I care," Nan said. "I want you to make him stop."

Harry had not missed the little conference between the two. He put his arm about June, thus effectually stopping the dance.

"Did you folks ever hear the inside story of the big dam," he demanded lightly. "How Nan here staged a welcome for Wellman and told me Jocko wanted me to stay away? I've always wondered just what Nan's idea was. Come on and tell us, Nan."

"I don't need to explain that to this crowd," Nan exclaimed with spirit. "They all know you."

There was applause at this, which did not please Harry.

JAMES ELRICK IS CANDIDATE

Defeats Fred C. Elliott For Bowser Nomination in Esquimalt Riding

Both Men Willing to Help Other Win Election; Three Hundred Attend

Special to The Times
Colwood, V.I., July 12.—With an attendance of over 300 the Non-Partisan Party convention in Colwood Hall yesterday evening nominated Ex-Reeve James Elrick as the Bowser candidate in Esquimalt.

J. E. Merryfield, secretary of the Non-Partisan Movement, acted as chairman. He said he hoped there would be no misunderstanding as to the object of the meeting, urging all to play the game squarely.

"We are starting out with a new party, supposed to be absolutely clean, and hope nothing irregular will take place at the meeting," Mr. Merryfield said.

On entering the hall all were given the opportunity of signing sheets and the names of each voter extended over a period of two hours.

The nomination of Mr. Elrick was moved by F. H. Buxton of Esquimalt, and seconded by George Cook, Mr. Buxton said Mr. Elrick had served four years on the Esquimalt School Board, two years as chairman, followed by five years as Reeve of Esquimalt. He further stated Mr. Elrick was a "square shooter" and would serve well in the Legislature as he had in the municipality.

Fred C. Elliott was nominated by F. C. Blake of Metchoin, who stated the nominee had wide experience in political affairs, was honest, straightforward, tactful and was a property owner in the district. R. B. Punnett seconded the nomination.

Mr. Elrick stated if unsuccessful in securing the nomination, he would leave off his coat and work for Mr. Elliott.

In Mr. Bowser the speaker stated we had one of the smartest men in the Dominion of Canada. He further stated this was an open convention, "no hole in the corner about it," and every person was welcome. Mr. Elrick stated Mr. Elliott was not a resident in Esquimalt, and was not on the voters' list.

Mr. Elrick said he had the confidence of at least seventy-five per cent of the voters in Esquimalt, stating there was no sectionalism in him. He could make no promises as yet, but if elected would meet his constituents once a year, which had never been done in the past in the Esquimalt riding. He would be at the service of his constituents at any time, stating they could go to him or he would go to them.

Turning to the situation in connection with the purchase of food supplies in the Outer Point Relief Camp, the speaker stated all such supplies were purchased in Victoria, which in his estimation was wrong. Every article he stated that the farmer had to sell, which could be purchased in the district in which the camp was situated, should be so purchased.

Mr. Elliott stated it was quite true he was not a resident in Esquimalt, neither was he a resident in the riding, other electoral districts in which he owned property.

He further stated he had been a supporter of Mr. Bowser for many years, having supported him in the 1926 convention in Kamloops. Mr. Elliott said Mr. Bowser was a man who could control the affairs of the country so there would not be a deficit and would provide a stable government which would not tax the people beyond what they were able to pay.

The speaker stated five years ago he went to Dr. Toimie, endeavoring to have Mr. Bowser taken into the cabinet. Dr. Toimie inquired why Mr. Elliott was so anxious to have Mr. Bowser in the cabinet. Being a blunt Irishman, Mr. Elliott stated he replied: "I would like to see some political brains in the cabinet."

With further reference to excess taxation Mr. Elliott referred to the meal tax. The government made a grant for publicity to attract tourists, and yet one heard on the radio "Don't go to British Columbia as they tax you on your meals." With reference to his own personal experience in Vancouver, when he was taxed fourteen cents, Mr. Elliott stated he would pay it when the Privy Council said he must pay it and not before.

Mr. Elliott stated he appreciated the qualifications of his opponent, and if Mr. Elrick was nominated, he would be the first one to go out and help him, and he strongly felt the welfare of the country was bound up in the leadership of Mr. Bowser.

F. C. Blake, who appointed chairman of the Non-Partisan Movement in the Esquimalt riding, and a secretary will be announced in a few days.

A NEW INDUSTRY

The above picture shows a new industry located at 413 Colville Road, Victoria West, by Geo. E. Hutchinson. This new enterprise will be run as a subsidiary to the Hiker Products Company, and will be known as the Hutchinson Novelty Works. The plant has been equipped with special machinery, partly built by Mr. Hutchinson, to manufacture a line of goods that the Hiker as yet never has undertaken, and has special machinery for wood-turning.

Attempts to Remove Wrinkles Often Have Dangerous Results

Peeling of Face With Carbolic Acid Solutions Can Cause Severe Irritations and Contraction of Skin

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Another type of preparation much used on the skin is the wrinkle remover.

In this field particularly there is a vast amount of charlatanism. It is safe to say no wrinkle remover thus far available is effective. Most of these are irritating lotions which give a sense of contraction on drying, but really do not contract the skin at all.

Preparations have been made with egg whites which stiffens on the skin and gives the woman the impression that her skin is being straightened out.

From time to time, quacks have introduced other methods which are exceedingly dangerous. One was the injection of paraffin under the skin with the idea of raising up the wrinkled area. Unfortunately, paraffin injected in this way sometimes is associated with the sudden growth of tumors.

Another dangerous method involves the peeling of the face with solutions of carbolic acid, causing an irritation and crusting. At the same time adhesive tapes are applied to force the wrinkled skin into place so that when the wrinkles will not be visible.

It is a mistake in maintaining healthy circulation.

There have been some exceedingly unfortunate results in such cases, including large scars, and, in addition, contractions of the skin in some cases to such a point that it was impossible to close the lips or shut the eyes. No one should indulge in such methods of wrinkle-removing without an understanding of the terrible results that may follow.

Most skin specialists are convinced that creams are valuable for exceedingly dry skins. Most people whose skin is dry will have scaling of the skin if they use strong toilet soaps. Authorities are convinced that soap and water are suitable for oily skin but not for dry skins.

Fortunately, the skin is a living tissue and therefore has certain automatic powers of regulation. The circulating blood keeps the skin in a healthy state. Therefore, the most valuable step in the care of the skin is encouragement of good circulation.

This obviously is accomplished by proper diet and hygiene.

Hot and cold bathing may be useful in stimulating the flow of the blood in the capillaries. Gentle massage

Getting Good Name, Star's First Problem
New York, July 12.—Even if one had a better memory for monkeys, it would be difficult to recognize scores of famous stage and screen folk by their real names.

Just to give you an idea—Chorsey Noonan is Sally O'Neil, Myrna Stern is a Von and a Berg and became Joseph Von Sternberg, the director of "The Scarlet Empress," and when it comes to long distance records, get this one: Lolita Delores Anusculo De Martines, that fellow fawn, is Dolores Del Rio.

This word championship is almost tied by DeLorenzo Louis Antonio Demosio, who is Gilbert Roland.

Well, if you like the game, here are a few more: Fannie Brice started as Fannie Boroch; June Collyer was Dorothy Heermance; Gilda Gray was once known as Marianna; Micholiska Paula Osterman doesn't sound half so Spanish as Raquel Torres, does it? Jack Gilbert was John Pringle. Ins

Allen Jenkins sat on the top of a pole 100 feet high for the biggest part of a day in taking scenes for "Mind Reader," a First National picture starring Warren William, now showing at the Columbia Theatre. It was a cold day in December with a howling wind. Jenkins says he would much prefer shoveling coal for Satan.

BARRYMORE AT THE DOMINION

Has Leading Role With Diana Wynyard in "Reunion in Vienna"

Hollywood has certainly done right by Robert E. Sherwood's "Reunion in Vienna," now at the Dominion Theatre. The screen version of his theatre masterpiece stands as direct refutation of traditional mutilation of stage play when run through the cinematic grist mill. Indeed, the theatre offering would suffer by comparison, in this writer's opinion.

With John Barrymore starred and Diana Wynyard heading the supporting cast, coupled with Sidney Franklin's superb direction, the filmization of the Broadway hit achieves the happiest of results. Pictorially it has a fluid beauty that enhances it vastly and adds a glamorous background for the brilliant Sherwood dialogue. Barrymore is at his best as the Barmyish Hapsburg and offers an engaging a portrayal as he has accomplished in his career.

The picture will crown the happy career of the actress who has been suggested in the dialogue. She is beautifully photographed and her performance fits nicely alongside Barrymore's own excellent portrayal.

Against this panorama the beauty and unit of England was filmed in this delightful story of human aspirations, follies, understandings and misunderstandings.

The acts erected for the film total twenty-two, including five theatres, a real station, sundry inns, a school and a country house.

CAPITOL THEATRE
Rowland V. Lee is one of the few persons connected with the theatrical profession who left it for another business, and then returned to his first love, the theatre, never waver in his allegiance.

Born in Findlay, Ohio, Lee received his early education there, in South Orange, N.J., and in New York City. He was at Columbia University when he decided that the stage offered a more colorful career than finance, and joined a stock company.

He recently returned from England where he directed and produced for two years, to direct "Zoo in Budapest," first lease L. Laury production for Fox Film, in which Gene Raymond and Loretta Young are co-stars. The film is now enjoying a most successful engagement at the Capitol Theatre.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
A two-room modernistic, lavishly furnished, beautifully-decorated apartment was erected on the RKO-Radio lot in New York City, and was put up according to original plans and would, under less favorable conditions, have taken three days for completion.

The apartment is seen in "No Other Woman," co-starring Irene Dunne and Charles Bickford and showing to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.

EMPIRE THEATRE
The youngest of the "Explorers of the World," whose adventures are being presented in screen form at the Empire Theatre, is Laurence M. Gould.

Gould, who is thirty-seven, has many years of adventure and exploration to his credit, the most notable being his work with the Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

The success and safe accomplishment of Admiral Byrd's epic flight from Little America to the South Pole and return was largely due to the weather reports that Gould sent back from his little camp well on the way of that historic flight.

Alan Taylor Advances To Second Round In Canadian Golf

THE SPORTS MIRROR

B.C. Tennis Championships Here Will Draw Field Of Stars.

John Murio and Gracy Wheeler Head Invaders From California.

Seattle's Fine New Racing Plant Will Be Opened August 3.

PROSPECTS are bright for the annual British Columbia tennis championships to be staged at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, July 24 to 28. A large contingent of players has come north from California and is this week taking part in the Washington State tournament at Seattle. The invaders, who will all come to Victoria for the B.C. event, are headed by John Murio, San Francisco, Washington State titleholder in 1931 and runner-up last year to Henry Prusoff, Seattle, and Gracy Wheeler, present holder of the Washington state crown.

Murio and Miss Wheeler head one of the most colorful California delegations that has ever come north. In the men's division, Murio is Lloyd Budge, San Francisco, brother of Don Budge, the youthful sensation of California; Ned Russell, Los Angeles, rated as one of the strongest juniors in the south; Charles Hunt, San Francisco, who was ranked number five in the U.S. rankings in 1932; Martin Kliney, San Francisco, who topped the qualifying list and scored a convincing first-round victory yesterday over the Alberta champion, Stew Vickers, Calgary. Cameron advanced at the expense of Jimmy Todd, Victoria, winning 1 up in a nip-and-tuck struggle.

Almost on a par with Gracy Wheeler will be May Hovey, sister of Johnny Doe, former United States champion, and number three among the girls of Southern California in 1932, and her cousin, Dorothy Sutton Bundy, number four in the girls' division in Southern California. The daughter of May Sutton Bundy, former women's United States champion, and Tom Bundy, former United States doubles titleholder. Another formidable invader in the women's division is Golda Meyer Gross, whose rating is number three among Northern California women.

All these players will come to Victoria for the B.C. championships, assuring Victoria fans of some first-class tennis. It was announced yesterday that Marcel Rainville, Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup player, and ranked number one in Canada last year, and Laird Watt, who defeated Rainville in the Quebec championship final last week, will be competing for the Canadian championship. As this tournament is held the week after the B.C. in Victoria, it is possible the two Montrealers will come to Victoria for the local event.

Seattle's new horse racing plant will open its first meeting Thursday, August 3, with its mile track in shape and ready for the thoroughbreds. Work on the grading of the track has been completed, and the seven-year-old building is now under way. The stables, clubhouse, grandstand and other buildings may be completed by the time the meeting opens. It is planned to erect two stables for starting. This will allow the fields to get started straight away. It has been decided to name the new plant, which is located near Renton Junction, "Longacres."

A bump on the head is sometimes worth two in the pants, and so it was with Jockey Johnny Westrope, who is today the horse player's favorite rider. It happened when the seven-year-old Westrope, in February, 1932, at Agua Caliente, when the baby-faced youngster was thrown unceremoniously and with a sickening thud from Nue Alta. Witnesses gasped and mournfully predicted that Jockey Westrope would do no more riding, in fact, some of them went so far as to predict that he would do no more of anything.

But to-day the boy is one of America's leading jockeys, not the time jockey. It was true that Westrope did no riding for some time following his accident at Agua Caliente. A boy can't ride with concussion of the brain, a broken jaw and internal injuries. Recently Westrope rode eight winners in eleven mounts at Washington Park.

Old-time race followers say he is the nearest they have seen to Tod Sloan. Westrope, unlike most of the American riders, carries a loose rein. He has that inexplicable magnetism of horses that jockeys themselves cannot fathom. It is legend among jockeys that certain riders can coax a horse into doing something that he would not do for another.

Plays Brilliantly To Defeat Fraser; Jimmy Todd Loses

Victoria Youngster Defeats Former Canadian Titleholder 6 and 5

TODD BEATEN IN GREAT STRUGGLE

Cecil Coville, Vancouver, Pulls Day's Upset By Victory Over Dr. Willing

Vancouver, July 12.—Second round of the Canadian amateur golf tournament over this long and difficult course to-day includes three matches that will mean the elimination of a trio of outstanding contenders for the crown being defended by Gordon Taylor, Montreal. The champion himself will be forced to display all his wiles in order to gain the quarter-finals, for he is drawn against Don Gowan, Vancouver veteran, whose play has been one of the features of the tourney.

Jack Cameron, the Torontonian who bowed to Taylor in the final last year, heads to-day's draw with Bobby Reith, eighteen-year-old Winnipegger, who topped the qualifying list and scored a convincing first-round victory yesterday over the Alberta champion, Stew Vickers, Calgary. Cameron advanced at the expense of Jimmy Todd, Victoria, winning 1 up in a nip-and-tuck struggle.

TAYLOR MEETS DOLF
The match between Alan Taylor, Victoria, runner-up for the Pacific Northwest crown two weeks ago, and Frank Dolf, well-known Portland star, will mean the elimination of a favorite challenger for both displayed uncanny bluff yesterday. Taylor was brilliant in a 6 and 5 victory over C. C. Fraser, Montreal, Canadian champion in 1922. Jimmy Bell, Vancouver.

Probably the greatest battle to-day, however, lies between the Pacific Northwest king, "Scotty" Campbell, Seattle, and the long-hitting San Francisco, Jack Finger. The latter was well below standard figures in a 6 and 5 victory over C. C. Fraser, Montreal, yesterday and is rated the leading United States challenger. Fred Robinson, taciturn Toronto veteran, faces Cecil Coville, Vancouver, who recorded a startling upset yesterday with a victory over the former United States Walker Cup star, Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland. Robinson rallied sensationally in the afternoon, defeating yesterday to defeat another Vancouverite, George Thomas, 5 and 3. Jack Lewis, Brantford player who won the Ontario amateur in 1932, completed the surviving eastern delegation. He is drawn against Dr. Cliff Baker, Portland. Three other Vancouver players, Kenny Black, Dick Moore and Jack Morrison and Harry Gowan, will complete the second round field. Black and Gowan are rated highly for the title chase.

Alan Taylor played steady, and at times, sensational golf to down Fraser, who won by Dominion from behind, was runner-up to Somerville in 1926.

Black continued his spectacular clubbing to turn in a one-sided victory over George Boeckh, Toronto. Runner-up to Don Garrick in the Ontario amateur this season, Young Black varied only twice from standard figures to complete the morning round with a 72 and knocked a stroke from par in the afternoon to defeat Boeckh, 14 and 13.

FEATURE MATCH
The feature match of the day was that between Coville and Dr. Willing. The veteran Portland-gofer displayed the same stubborn determination that carried him to the final of the United States amateur in 1929 at Pebble Beach, but Coville was coolly invincible and won the match, 1 up. Three times during the thirty-six holes, Dr. Willing ceded from behind to square the match, but inaccuracy from the tee proved disastrous. Coville took the lead for the last time at the 23rd yard seventeenth, where Dr. Willing was short with his drive and again with his approach, while the Vancouverite holed out in par 3.

"OLD MAN" PETROLLE MEETS BEP VAN KLAVEREN TO-NIGHT

Veteran Welterweight and Fast-moving Dutchman Battle in Ten round Scrap at New York; Winner Promised Title Engagement With Jimmy McLarnin

New York, July 12.—The "old man" as he likes to call himself, craggy-faced Billy Petrolle, bundles himself once more in his faded Indian blanket to-night to come out for battle with another of those youngsters who are always getting in his way. This time it is Bep van Klaveren, Holland, and the distance is ten rounds at the Polo Grounds with

Claim Dempsey To Marry Again

Fort Worth, Tex., July 12.—The Fort Worth Star-Telegram says it had learned Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, will be married to Anna Williams of New York in Nevada, "in the near future." Dempsey will be in Salt Lake City, Utah, Friday, enroute to the Pacific Coast and it was reported the marriage would take place "within the next few days," the paper says. Dempsey, here for an exhibition bout, neither confirmed nor denied the report.

CRICKET WINS ARE DECISIVE

Derby and Yorkshire Put on Smashing Displays in English County Matches

London, July 12.—Derby and Yorkshire scored smashing victories in first-class county cricket matches ending yesterday. Derby trounced Worcester by an innings and 234 runs, and Yorkshire beat Northamptonshire by an innings and 151.

Hedley Verity, demon trundler, who wrecked the West Indies batting not long ago, proved too much for the Northerners' batters, at Leeds, getting a total of thirteen wickets for just under eight runs apiece. Leyland scored 192 for Yorkshire.

At Chesterfield, Worthington starred in the Derby victory, scoring 200 not out and then taking four Worcester second-innings wickets for 12 runs each.

Gloucester, Lancashire and Sussex also won complete victories, while Kent and Warwickshire had to be content with wins on the first innings.

At Bristol, Gloucester defeated Surrey by an innings and 102 runs. Godard taking a total of ten Surrey wickets for 77, and Hammond another six for 26.

Lancashire defeated the home team at Leicester by an innings and 85 runs. Sussex defeated Somerset, at Taunton, by five wickets, James Langridge getting thirteen Somerset wickets for 88.

FIRST INNINGS WIN
Kent gained a win on the first innings over Essex, and Warwickshire won the first innings over Glamorgan, at Cardiff, although Paine, getting five Glamorgan wickets for 65, performed the hat trick.

Gloucestershire, 464 for five declared (Simpson 181 not out); Surrey, 44 and following nine, 318 (Hammond six for 26, Gregory 164); at Bristol, Somerset, 149 and 188 (James Langridge six for 44); Sussex, 313 for nine declared and 25 for five (Bowley 134); at Taunton.

Gloucester, 455 for nine declared (Hopwood 140); Leicestershire, 215 and following one, 155 (Idon four for 77); at Leicester, Somerset, 292 and 190 for eight (Freeman five for 56); Kent, 339 (Valentine 127); at Folkestone, Glamorgan, 228 and 234 for nine (Mason four for 41); Warwickshire, 358 for four declared; at Cardiff, Oxford University, 164, against Cambridge; at Lords. (Interrupted by rain.)

Belanger Beaten
Fort Benning, Ga., July 12.—Charlie Belanger, Winnipeg, Canadian light heavyweight champion, yesterday evening lost a close ten-round decision to John "Cory" Griffin, local boxer, in the feature bout of a card here.

RESPECTIVE LINE-UPS
The infield will include Red "Gopher" Lawson at first, the Fox brothers covering the second and third sacks, and Lloyd Martin "Petie" Salloway in the hot spot at short. Albert Cliff is listed for relief duty in the infield.

"We have half a dozen to draw upon for the outfield, and it will be selected from the following:—Tom Knott, T. Nute Jr., I. Donaldson, "Strongarm" Findlay, Red Wells, Roy Thorsen, Irving Strickland, E. Whitten and Alec Caldwell." At catcher, "Try and beat it," "You betcha, boys I can beat it," retorts Rebel. "How's this, Bobby Ross and I will handle the catching and pitching, and if we don't entertain you nobody else will. No other than Lester Patrick will prance at first, and Harold Husband gets the honor at second. Tommy Macado, basketball referee, extraordinary, has trained his eyes for the new job of catching the hot ones as short and our old pal, Percy Fitzsimmons, is assigned to third.

McLarnin, the new welterweight king, has no other man ever has done. Barney Ross gave him a thorough going over in Chicago.

Van Klaveren seems ideally constituted to give Petrolle trouble. Former European lightweight champion, the Dutchman bounds around, tirelessly on a pair of rubber legs Billy will envy. Bep doesn't hit very hard, but he punches fast and often takes a trump well, and never stops going.

The winner has been promised an outdoor title match here later this summer with McLarnin by Tim Mara, professional football promoter.

Times And Grays In Big Game To-morrow

Evening Newspaper Nine and Rebel Mowat's Tribe Clash at Beacon Hill

Both Teams Confident of Victory; Respective Line-ups Are Announced

"You can lay your money on the line right now. It's a cinch. We will take the Gray Line for the big game they ever had," declared manager Tom Nute of The Times baseballers this morning when he announced the line-up for the momentous clash between the newbies and the Grays at Beacon Hill Park to-morrow night. A collection will be taken in aid of the Red Cross workshop.

"Oh, no you don't," barks Revel Mowat of the Gray Line from the other corner. "We've got an umpire who can ump with the best of them, and by the time Bobby and I finish cleaning up on you newbies, well, the less said the better."

That is the way the situation stands. Looking at it from all sides the classic clash should be a nip-and-tuck affair, but one by one they have fallen along the wayside. Finally The Times has taken on the challenge, and they hope to take the Gray in a big way.

"It will either be 20 to 0 or nothing at all," declared Nute. "That's our battle cry."

And so the stage is set for the strange encounter, with added attractions which have not been revealed so far.

Nute is sending Tuttle Saragion, the mixed foursomes played on the links at Duncan on Monday evening for the Sunday Trophy, were Miss Tilley and Gordon Whan, with a net score of 32½.

Other scores follow:

Times And Grays In Big Game To-morrow

Evening Newspaper Nine and Rebel Mowat's Tribe Clash at Beacon Hill

Both Teams Confident of Victory; Respective Line-ups Are Announced

"You can lay your money on the line right now. It's a cinch. We will take the Gray Line for the big game they ever had," declared manager Tom Nute of The Times baseballers this morning when he announced the line-up for the momentous clash between the newbies and the Grays at Beacon Hill Park to-morrow night. A collection will be taken in aid of the Red Cross workshop.

"Oh, no you don't," barks Revel Mowat of the Gray Line from the other corner. "We've got an umpire who can ump with the best of them, and by the time Bobby and I finish cleaning up on you newbies, well, the less said the better."

That is the way the situation stands. Looking at it from all sides the classic clash should be a nip-and-tuck affair, but one by one they have fallen along the wayside. Finally The Times has taken on the challenge, and they hope to take the Gray in a big way.

"It will either be 20 to 0 or nothing at all," declared Nute. "That's our battle cry."

And so the stage is set for the strange encounter, with added attractions which have not been revealed so far.

Nute is sending Tuttle Saragion, the mixed foursomes played on the links at Duncan on Monday evening for the Sunday Trophy, were Miss Tilley and Gordon Whan, with a net score of 32½.

Other scores follow:

Mainland Marksman Leads Competitors In MacDonald Brier

Sergt. T. R. Davies Scores 103 Out of 105 in Feature at B.C.R.A. Meet

Sergt. J. H. Regan, Victoria, Second

Garrison Team Takes Permanent Possession of B.C. Electric Railway Cup

Sergt. T. R. Davies of the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver, and a former member of the Canadian Bisley team, showed the way to marksmen competing in the MacDonald Brier No. 1 match at Heals Range yesterday afternoon, turning in a brilliant 103, out of a possible 105 on the 200, 500 and 600-yard ranges. During the afternoon, conditions improved considerably for the ninety-one competitors taking part in the annual rifle meet of the British Columbia Rifle Association.

Sergt. Davies' feat was remarkable in view of the fact that the bull's-eye has been reduced this year to conform with that used at Bisley. At the 200-yard mark, the five-inch disc is being used in place of the six-inch one, while at the 500 and 600-yard ranges the bull has been reduced from eighteen to fifteen inches.

Second to Sergt. Davies came Sergt. J. H. Regan, Canadian Scottish, also a former Bisley man and a veteran of the ranges. Sergt. Regan turned in a 102.

GARRISON TEAM WINS
The second of the team matches, shot concurrently with the MacDonald Brier for the B.C. Electric Cup, was won by the Garrison team of five men with a 489 out of 515. The trophy now becomes the permanent possession of the Garrison, this team having won it twice in three years, the former victory being in 1931. The Canadian Scottish representatives were second, five points behind the leaders.

FIREMEN LOSE IN CLOSE GAME
All the forces which the firemen were able to bring out failed to distinguish the Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus drivers yesterday evening, when the chauffeurs handed the smoke eaters a 10-to-8 setback. The game was keen throughout and except for two costly errors, made by the firemen, both teams played airtight ball.

"Letty" Robertson went the full route on the mound for the losers and also contributed two circuit clouts to their total. The firemen's next game will be played with the police department, Manager Ed Clayards announced this morning, after regretfully admitting yesterday evening's defeat.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL
Cardinals and Live Wires scored victories in the women's division of the city softball loop yesterday evening by defeating Hearts and Ross Bay, respectively. The Cardinals trimmed the Hearts, 17 to 7, while the Live Wires trounced the Bays, 35 to 5.

Profit-taking In Wheat Futures With Fluctuating Values

Winnipeg, July 12.—Heavy profit-taking in wheat futures was reported today and the close values were 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower.
July closed at 88 1/2, October at 90 1/2, December 92 1/2, and May at 96 1/2.
Bulls had a slight margin on the bears to-day as the battle waged back and forth with values fluctuating rapidly. Most of the selling came in the nature of profit-taking with investors providing most of the support, although buying on the strength of export sales was noticeable. Sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at between 500,000 and 750,000 bushels.
Liverpool, after trading in a firm position most of the day, eased to close only 1/4 to 1/2 higher.
Cash grain trading was firm, but there appeared little demand. Rye at one time showed a gain of 3/4 cents to feature trading on coarse grains, due to reports that grain may be exported to United States.

Chicago, July 12 (Associated Press)—Taking a star role, rye today aimed approximately 25 cents a bushel advance in the last three days.
A striking feature was that for the first time some rye sold higher than some deliveries of the companion bread-stuff, wheat, so high that Canadian rye is now being imported into the United States.
All grains closed nervous. Rye 3 to 3 1/2 cents above yesterday's finish. Wheat 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 up.
Putures:
Wheat: July, 1.06 1/2-1.07; September, 1.08 1/2-1.09; December, 1.10 1/2-1.11; May, 1.14 1/2-1.15.
Rye: July, 98; September, 1.00 1/2; December, 1.05 1/2-1.06 1/2.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Every Girl Had as Well Face the Fact That She Is Likely to Have to Support Herself, and Possibly Her Husband and Children, Says Dorothy Dix—So the Sweet Girl Graduate Will Do Well to Prepare Herself to Earn Her Own Living

THESE are the days when the sweet girl graduate "stands with reluctant feet where the brook and river meet," as the poet says, and virtually asks herself: "Where do I go from here?" This is a modern-girl problem that the old-fashioned girl never had to bother with. She knew her destination. She was headed for the altar and except for the act of God, as shipping manifests say, was sure to arrive there on scheduled time.

But the girl of to-day has no certainty of getting married and acquiring a husband who will be a satisfactory meal ticket. More and more men are shying away from wedding rings, and more and more the men who get married expect their wives to keep on with their jobs and help make the dough as well as bake it. In fact it has got so that every girl had as well face the fact that she is likely to have to support herself, and possibly her husband and children to boot.

Therefore, I urge every girl just as soon as she finishes school to make her own living, and to set about learning how to do some particular kind of work so expertly that she will be able to command a good salary.

And this advice was never more pertinent than it is now in these times of depression and breaking banks, when we have all witnessed the heartbreaking spectacle among our friends, of middle-aged and elderly women who have been lapped in luxury all their lives who have suddenly had their fortunes swept away from them, and who have been left the most helpless and pathetic creatures on earth.

No woman is safe from such a fate, and the only way she can protect herself against it is to have resources within herself on which she can fall back in hour of need. So I would impress upon the sweet girl graduate the necessity of adding the fine art of making money to her knowledge of the other arts and sciences that she has learned in college.

I would say to her: Psychanalyse yourself and try to get an honest line on your own abilities. Don't rate yourself too highly and don't make the mistake of thinking that because you would like to do a thing it is any indication that you have the ability to do it. Of course, you would like to be a motion-picture star, or a dancer with your name in electric lights over a theatre, or a writer of best sellers, but that is no sign that you are a Greta Garbo or a Pavlova or a Kathleen Norris. God has to give us beauty and brains and genius. If He hasn't done it we can't make them for ourselves, and none are so forlorn as those who waste a whole lifetime aspiring to things above their reach.

Don't let your pride influence your decision. Don't try to do things for which you have no aptitude just because you think they are highbrow or elegant. Don't try to write sonnets that you can't sell if Nature intended you to make pies that are poems that will cause people to wear a path to your doorstep. Don't paint daubs on canvas when you can make hats and gowns that are masterpieces of art. Find out the thing that you like to do so well that you get joy out of doing it for itself, and you will achieve success and happiness.

Learn to be an expert in whatever you do. You have to work just as hard and just as long hours for a little money as you do for much. It is skill that makes the difference between a $5-a-week cook and a $5,000-a-year chef, and that enables one woman to get $50 for a hat, while another woman can't sell hers for $5. It is knowing her job from A to Z that takes a cashier to the head of her department, or sends her to Europe as a buyer in a department store. And it is ignorance and lack of skill that nails another to the counter in the bargain basement and dooms her to sell pots and pans from youth to age.

Also, besides the comfort and satisfaction of having your own pocket-book, the ability to make your own living will help you every day in every way. It will give you police because it stiffens a woman's spine to know that she can stand on her own feet. If you marry, it will go a long way toward insuring you good treatment from your husband, because no man tries to browbeat a competent business woman who can walk out on him if he makes her job as a wife unpleasant. And if you are unlucky enough to marry a drunkard or a rouse you will not have to endure him as the woman does who has to put up with any sort of abuse and degradation because she is helpless and she and her children would starve if she left her brute of a husband.

And if you should not marry you will have the best possible substitute for husband and children in your work. You will have a vital interest in life, something to think about, something to plan for, something to mother. No busy person is ever bored. The only sour, disgruntled old maids are the idle ones. There are no happier, jollier, more alert and interested women than the bachelor girls who are engrossed in the romance of business and who have postponed careers instead of men.

And finally, if you are a competent business woman, one who has earned money and knows how to handle it, you will not be cheated out of your inheritance if your father or husband should leave you a fortune, as so many women are who become the victims of sharpers because they don't know the difference between a gilt-edged bond and Wildcat Preferred.

So I would say to the sweet girl graduate "standing with reluctant feet where the brook and river meet: Go to the nearest business or trade school. Beat it. Scram. DOROTHY DIX.

Adventure of the Northland

VIII—THE VALLEY OF GEYSERS

Icebergs are a great danger to ships in the North Atlantic, and it was well that Allen should shout a warning when he saw one. It is possible that the pilot would have caught sight of the berg in time to save the Amundsen, but the boy's sharp eyes were the first to spot it. Uncle Tim joined him in shouting the warning, and the pilot managed to swing the vessel out of the path of danger.

Up shot the hote steaming water. "The most dangerous part of an iceberg," remarked Uncle Tim after the incident was past, "is what is under water. It is estimated that eight-ninths of the ice is below the surface. There's no telling just how wide a berg is at the bottom."

"Are icebergs made out of frozen sea water?"

"No, indeed. It is made of ice of them is melted, it is found to contain fresh water. The history goes back to falling snow. The snow is packed down until pressure turns it into ice, into ice—in other words into a glacier. Glaciers move down valley and push into the sea where chunks are broken off. The chunks are the icebergs which float far and wide."

Ten days later the ship reached a harbor about twenty miles north of Reykjavik, capital of Iceland.

"Are we going to see any geysers?" asked Allen, turning to Dr. Barstow.

"Yes," replied the scientist, "we shall go overland in a westerly direction until we get to a broad valley containing hundreds of geysers and hot springs."

Allen and Roberta enjoyed the "hiking" though they found walking rather hard during part of the journey. When they reached the geyser valley, great was their interest in going from one hot spring to another. It seemed strange to see water boiling without any fire in sight, but Mr. Weston explained that rocks under the water were so hot that they caused this action to take place. Then he called them to a great pool sixty feet wide, and said: "From time to time, water in this pool is hurled high into the air. This is called the 'Great Geyser'."

"Look over there!" cried Roberta.

"A geyser is starting to go up!"

The three hurried to the geyser. Roberta had pointed out. Up shot the hot steaming water. Before long the jet reached a height of about seventy feet.
